WHY UNDERTAKERS ARE NOT APPOINTED DEPUTY CORONERS.

CORONER'S POWER IS SHORN.

Now Devoid of Usefulness in Law—

Fever—Undertakers Look Body Over.

Dr. H. J. Bell, Coroner of Fayette county addressed the members of the Tri-County Funeral Directors' Association this morning on the relations that exist between the Coroner and the undertaker. His remarks were interesting and revealed several phases not generally known to the public.

Dr. Bell also made an explanation in regard to his appointment of deputy coroners. He said that the reason he did not select undertakers was that the National Association of Undertakers had taken action against such appointments and he also considered it unwise to compelling undertakers to be members of the association on their number as a deputy. There had been instances where it was necessary to do so, but not frequently.

Dr. Bell stated that there was no more delicate nor dignified profession than that of undertaking. The presence of death required these attributes. In the case of deaths by violence, whether passionate or otherwise, it necessitates additional delicacy, in the relation and position of the undertaker to the family of the deceased.

In the case of violent or passionate deaths, such as murder, the coroner

Dr. Bell stated that the duties of the Coroner were not to convict a person of any crime, but to decide when, how and where the dead person met death. The office of Coroner had really become almost devoid of any usefulness in law. The legal features were for the District Attorney and Sheriff to look after. There was a time when the office of Coroner was an especially important one, notably in Great Britain, but as time passed its duties were infringed upon and the

The undertaker, said Dr. Bell, is of great assistance to the Coroner. In the case of violent or passionate deaths he is, in almost every instance, the first person called to the scene and he usually notifies the Coroner. It is then that the undertaker is in the best position to ascertain the conditions surrounding death and in the case of incident thereto can gather evidence of nature and value that might serve the ends of justice. Such facts, he said, are not so easily brought out after the excitement of the occasion has passed.

Dr. Bell referred to the death last

He was taken to the death last week of a man in the southern end of the County, who bore an unsavory reputation. He had been ill but a short time and a death certificate was given, stating the cause to be typhoid fever. Shortly afterward it was reported that he had been shot. The attending physician was firm in his statement that typhoid fever caused the demise. But he said he had not examined the bunk of the man. Nor was this expedient of the physician, in sickness of this kind. The undertaker was also asked if he had examined the body closely. The point made by Dr. Bell was that it might be a good thing for undertakers to look the bodies over carefully preparatory to burial even though they are not expected to do so.

Dr. Bell's remarks were received with applause and he was invited to be the guest of the Tri-County Funeral Directors' Association at the National Convention, which meets at Uniontown June 10, 11 and 12 next.

Examiner Temporarily Withdrawn
From Waynesburg Bank Case.

The trial of the case of Cashier J. B. F. Rinehart, charged in the United States District Court with irregularities that are alleged to have contributed to the failure of the Farmers & Drovers National Bank at Waynesburg, Pa., has been postponed again. The case had been on the docket for trial at the preceding term, but was continued at that time, because Special Examiner Charles Stareck had not completed his investigation.

The cause of this latest postponement is that Examiner Stareck was withdrawn from the Waynesburg case some time ago by the Department of Justice and put to work on an investigation of a failure in New York.

About all that United States District Attorney John W. Dunkle could district Attorney John W. Dunkle could say was that the trial of Rinehart would now go over to the October term. Asked if the case would come to trial then, he said jaconically: "I hope so."

Commencement Exercises of Connellsville Township Schools

PROGRAM FINELY RENDERED.

Rev. J. A. Eby Delivers the Class Address and Members of the Class Ably Acquit Themselves With Their Selections

Despite the inclemency of the weather, Richey's Hall at South Connellsville was filled to its utmost capacity last evening when the annual commencement exercises of the Connellsville township schools were held. Two boys and five girls graduating. The audience was a representative one and that they appreciated the program was shown by the bursts of applause which followed each number on the program, which was carried out without a flaw. The participants rendered their selections in a creditable manner. Their enunciation was clear and distinct, each number being heard in every part of the hall. The Connellsville township schools have made excellent progress during the past term, which chiefly is due to the efficient principal, Roy J. Jensen, and the able corps of teachers.

The large hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The class colors, red and white, being the prevailing color scheme. The stage was artistically decorated with cut flowers, palms and ferns. The class is composed of seven members: five young women and two young men. All members of the class participated in the program.

Music was furnished from 7:30 until 8:15 by Kiferio's orchestra. As a selection was being rendered by the orchestra the members of the class and Principal Roy J. Jensen took their places on the stage, forming a semi-circle.

Owing to the absence of Rev. W. E. Bassett, pastor of the Evangelical Church of South Connellsville, the invocation was delivered by Rev. J. A. Eby, Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Miss Annabel Lee, Class President, then delivered the salutatory address after which an oration, "The Southern Negro," by Joseph Lohr was ably delivered.

The next period was taken up with an oration, "The Church and State in France," by Miss Edith Kleibish. Miss Kleibish handled her subject in a manner which showed careful study and preparation. The next number was a selection by the orchestra, after which Miss Anna Kleibish delighted the audience with a well rendered recitation. Political Education was the subject of an instructive oration delivered by Arthur Evans. This was followed by an oration, "Decision," by Miss Nora Creighton. Miss Sadie Rae Hawk then entertained the audience with a mock valentine. This was one of the most enjoyable features of the evening. The class address was then delivered by Rev. J. A. Eby, Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., at the conclusion of which the members of the class received their diplomas. The program closed with a selection by the orchestra.

This woman says she was saved from an operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham of Norristown, Pa., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

I suffered untold misery from female troubles. My doctor said an operation was the only chance I had and I dreaded it almost as much as death.

One day I read how other women had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I decided to try it. Before I had taken the first bottle I was better, and now I am entirely cured.

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN. For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ailments, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, blood tumors, irregularities, periods, pain, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

MUD ISLAND'S

RIGHT AND MIGHT.
Connellsville's desire to entertain the Teachers' Institute of Fayette county is in no sense a commercial proposition, and it should not be received in that spirit by the County Superintendent, the School Directors' Convention or the teachers themselves; and there is reason to believe that it has not been so received by a majority of either directors or teachers, and that it is not so regarded by them.

Connellsville only asks for that which is due her as the first town in Fayette county when she requests the honor of at least one Teachers' Institute out of many. The law does not require the County Institute to be held at the County Seat, nor does it require the teachers to attend such institute. The matter of their attendance is wholly within the School Boards employing them. The School Boards of the Young region may with perfect right direct their teachers to attend an institute to be held in Conneltsville this winter, and to ignore entirely the institute held in any other place by the County Superintendent.

We would deplore such a division of pedagogic counsels, but if Conneltsville should perchance offer better inducements to the Young region and other Fayette county teachers there would be no reason why they should not come to Conneltsville for consultation and improvement, but every reason why they should.

The Uniontown Convention was packed with Uniontown spectators and it was the mob and not the members of the convention who adjourned it summarily in the teeth of the fact that another motion was pending. Such rudimentary tactics often reach upon those who employ them. Conneltsville is not vengeful, but it is determined that its importance shall not be ignored and its rights ruthlessly trampled upon by irresponsible and unauthoritative persons.

We are advised that Superintendent Lowellyn declared that "it would be as much as his political future was worth to hold the institute in Conneltsville." It signifies that the County Superintendent is something of a political acrobat, willing to sacrifice the rights of others to the saint coterie of county seat politicians, enumerating himself as one of them.

Superintendent Lowellyn is, to say the least, ungrateful. It was a Conneltsville director, backed by Young region directors, who increased his salary $1,000 per year. In the tangle and temper of the convention there would have been no change in the salary of the County Superintendent but for the active and able interference of Director Howard of Conneltsville.

But Conneltsville does not rest her claim to the coming Teachers' Institute on this ground, but upon the broader and surer ground of an equitable distribution of the honor of entertaining the teachers, and we hope in the interest of fair play and educational harmony that the claim will not be ignored.

A WISE CHANGE

IN CORPORATE POLICY.
Corporate management, once so cold and unfeeling as to give rise to the proverb, "Corporations have no souls," has changed in recent years for the better. The policy of many great corporations, particularly railway corporations, has been to retain old and faithful employees and to pension them when they arrive at an age when they are no longer able to work.

The chief object of this, aside from its humanitarian view, is to enlist the personal interest of the employee in their work and in the company's business. The managers want every man in the service to feel that he is a partner in the company and that his first loyalty is to the company's interests; that his superiors are not his taskmasters, but his fellow workers; that there is between them not eternal war, but comradeship in a common cause; and this to the end that the best interests of the company may be promoted by unity of service and that with the greatest measure of success may come the greatest measure of profit-sharing with the wage-earners.

The B. & O. in common with other large railroads has been pursuing this policy for some time, and in accordance with it has given preference to its old employees in all lines of work. It bears heavily upon some of the younger men, but it furnishes the incentive to sober and steady habits and loyal service to the company.

A NEW BOROUGH

OFFICER NEEDED.
The fact that the Borough Auditors did not ascertain all of the indebtedness of the borough is probably no fault of theirs. They had only the books and accounts to audit, and if these did not show all the indebtedness it was not the fault of the auditors.

What the borough needs is a better system of accounting and a competent man to take charge of the accounts in short a controller or business agent. Such person should receive sufficient salary to enable him to give the position his entire attention. He should have charge of the records and should be held accountable for them. He should have an office in the City Hall and be accessible at all reasonable times.

The demand for such an officer does not proceed from Conneltsville alone. It is voiced in many other towns and the result may be some legislation on the subject which will point the way to more satisfactory conditions than have heretofore prevailed.

EVERYBODY CAN STAND

ON THIS PLATFORM.
The National Prosperity Association has been formed at St. Louis with the following platform:

To keep the dinner pail full.
To keep the money going.
To keep workers employed and maintain present wages.

A Square Deal and a Square Meal for everybody.
The platform is one upon which we may all stand with comfort and happiness, and there are some Presidential candidates who would fit into it.

Knox for instance.
The proposition is made that the names of all the candidates at a primary be printed on one ballot and every voter be given the right to vote promiscuously without regard to whether or not he expects to support the nominee. The effect of this legislation would be to permit a majority party to dictate the nominees of the minority party, and in a limited but no less certain degree the minority would be accorded a similar privilege. Such a law would not be conducive to good nominations nor to party justice. It is no wonder we have freak legislation on our statute books.

Reflections of County Superintendent of Common Schools were the rule this year, but it is safe to say that none of them fared better than Superintendent Lowellyn. He should be careful to preserve the good opinion of the people by being fair and just to all, and not permitting himself to be ruled by any faction or section.

The attacks of timber-grabbers upon the Forest Service of the Government will only serve to strengthen the latter with the people.

"On to Oakland!" has been the battle-cry of the boosters of the Upper Young valley for several years past, and now it is announced that the Confluence & Oakland branch will certainly be extended to Oakland to develop some valuable coal lands along the line. The railroad will be built for the development of the mineral resources. The larger portion of the timber has already been cut out.

The Butler-Mercer operators are invited to settle on any terms that preserve the miners' union. President Foshier has disappointed from his high horse. He did not just in time to escape being thrown. This is no time for impossible demands.

ARM IS MANGLED.

Workman's Arm Caught in Cog Wheel and Cut by Knife at Scottdale.

THE REMOVAL OF WATER PLUGS

In Everson Yesterday Cause for Much Unfavorable Comment, and No Reason is Assigned for the Action. Workman Arrested.

SCOTSDALE, May 7.—Carroll Prichard was the victim of a very severe accident in the Scottdale machine shop yesterday when his arm was caught in a cog wheel and mangled by a revolving knife. He was talking to the superintendent when the shaft of his jack came in contact with the cog and his arm drawn to the knife. He was attended by Dr. Fetter and was later taken to his home.

A great deal of excitement and anger was in evidence yesterday in Everson when by order of Superintendent Randall of the Citizens' Water Company, the two plugs, one at the Polish church and the other at the corner of Brown street, were removed. A large crowd gathered around to learn the reason for the action, but apparently there was no reason to be given, or at least none that was forthcoming. The two plugs have been in service since the first right of way was granted to the company and were on numerous occasions the means of subduing many threatening blazes. The town now is absolutely bereft of any means of extinguishing a fire and the present danger of the town is evident to all. J. I. Dick, who had the work in hand, was arrested by the borough authorities for tearing up the street without a permit, and $50 was posted as a forfeit for his appearance before the Burgess. It was evidently a case of retaliation for tearing down the plug of the Citizens' Water Company of East-Scottdale returned from Johnstown last night. He had gone there to attend the funeral of his uncle.

The paintings of John Templeton in the Geyer House are receiving marked attention from many, they being out of the ordinary. The work of the artist is left here yesterday for Footdale, where the ovens have been fired during the past few days.

Floyd Aaron, formerly of this place was run down by a fire truck in Piedmont yesterday and dangerously injured. A telephone message received at night reports that he is not expected to live. His mother left for Piedmont immediately after she was informed of the accident.

While winding a crane in the Scottdale sheet mill yesterday Joseph Beloco was painfully injured on the knee, the handle slipping just as he had reached the last notch. He was taken home in a buggy and Dr. Fetter attended the injured member.

John Gibson returned from New York yesterday, where he had gone to undergo an operation for an abscess on one of his eyes.

F. W. Bigone walked to Conneltsville yesterday to attend the baseball game. J. P. Brennan and J. P. Owens attended the meeting of the independent coal operators in Uniontown yesterday. James Cully and son were in Brownsville yesterday and attended the Uniontown-Scottdale game on their return home.

P. J. Dirken, formerly of this place, but now located in Blacklick, Ind., was visiting his brother here yesterday.

Rev. Father Burns of Conneltsville stopped off here on his way from Pittsburgh to visit Father M. A. Lambing.

Fred Kook of Ruffsdale was calling on friends here yesterday.

Rev. A. Auld, pastor of the Alverton M. E. Church, will preach in the West End Mission, Arthur avenue, this city, at 7:45. The congregation is growing and the interest increasing.

John Keller returned from a visit to Pittsburgh last night.

Bert Sherrick of the Smith House, Conneltsville, was a business caller here yesterday.

J. K. Thayer of Greensburg was here yesterday on business.

C. W. McClellan of Uniontown was calling on friends here yesterday.

J. S. Weddell of West Newton was calling on friends here yesterday.

Harry Newcomer will return to Panama in about five days. He has had a six weeks' vacation, but is anxious to return to the island.

C. P. Randall of Conneltsville was here on business yesterday.

E. A. Humphries was in Greensburg yesterday on business.

F. Hughes of Somerset Distilling Company was here on business yesterday.

Dave McIntyre and M. J. Kelly went to Pittsburgh yesterday to witness the ball game between Pittsburg and Chicago.

Charles Seaton of Mt. Pleasant was in town last night.

Knox Had Covered the Matter. In Congress Monday an unsuccessful attempt was made by Representative Chancy of Indiana to put an item of $100,000 into the sundry civil Appropriation bill specifically providing for investigations into the causes of mine explosions by the Geological Survey.

But there was no need for it. It went down and out because the amendment adopted by the Senate at the instance of Senator Knox is sufficient to provide for a thorough inquiry, and there is no necessity for further allowance of money.

CLAIMS CONFLICT

That of Bryanites Denied by That of the Guffeyites.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 7.—Seven delegates to the Democratic national convention met in the Commonwealth hotel with twice as many members of the executive committee of the Bryan League of Pennsylvania. Last night Jere S. Black, president of the organization, issued a statement claiming Mr. Bryan would receive the support of fifty-two delegates from this state and that they would control the approaching state convention.

Secretary F. Gray Meek of the Democratic state committee also issued a statement in which he said the claim is excessive by forty votes and that a resolution seeking to instruct the Pennsylvania delegation will be defeated in a vote of 2 to 1. Mr. Black in his statement said that the league's information as to the result of the recent primary election warrants him in predicting the election of four delegates-at-large favorable to the nomination of Mr. Bryan.

The league's executive committee was in session behind closed doors practically all day. The national delegates present were Jere S. Black, York; J. C. Dumm, Huntingdon; A. V. Dively, Altoona; R. T. Cresswell, Johnstown, representing the Blair-Cambria-Bedford district; W. H. Farfar of Carlisle, representing the Cumberland-Dauphin-Lebanon district; and Joseph Howley and John Murphy of Pittsburgh.

In an interview Secretary Meek of the Democratic state committee denied the claim of the Bryan leaders, saying that they were claiming all of the delegates who announced themselves and were elected as Gray delegates as well as others who were elected as avowed opponents of the Nebraskan.

FLEET REACHES FRISCO

Hundreds of Thousands View Passage of the Golden Gate.

San Francisco, May 7.—Through the towering rocky portals of the Golden Gate into the harbor of the city of a hundred hills, into a new San Francisco, risen from the ruins of two years ago, the Atlantic battleship fleet steamed in today in a multitude of numbers. It was the same imposing pageant of immaculate white ships that sailed from Hampton Roads nearly five months ago in the wake of the president's flag, but with the splendid accomplishments of a cruise of more than 14,000 miles and three weeks of wonderful target work behind it.

San Francisco, Oakland and other cities near by all took a holiday to witness the coming of the fleet. There was a complete cessation of business, and the streets in the downtown section were absolutely deserted. More persons came into the city than left during the terror and homeless days following the fire.

ORCHARD REPRIEVED

Governor Gooding Steps Between Him and the Gallows.

Boise, Ida., May 7.—Governor Gooding has granted a reprieve until July 2 to Harry Orchard, sentenced to be hanged Friday of next week.

Owing to the fact that question was raised as to the legality of the board of pardons acting on new matters at a special session, Frank Wyman, attorney for Orchard, filed with the governor a petition for a reprieve, and the board, which had been called to meet last night, was advised that the session would not be held. Governor Gooding promptly assured Mr. Wyman that he would not permit Orchard to be hanged without a hearing of his case by the board and the order for a stay of sentence followed.

Methodist Conference Assembles.

Baltimore, May 7.—With hymns of praise and prayers for divine guidance the twenty-fifth delegated session of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church was begun at the Lyric in this city. At the first sitting the formal ceremonies of the opening were gone through and organization was effected, leaving everything in readiness for the vast amount of business that is expected to come before the body for disposition. Bishop Henry W. Warren of Denver, Col., called the assembly to order. There are accredited to the conference 737 delegates, who, with the fraternal visitors, come from twenty-four countries and represent more than 3,000,000 communicants.

Civil War Veterans Made Happy.

Washington, Pa., May 7.—John M. Hicks, a Civil war veteran of Jefferson, Greene county, has been presented with the old battleflag of his company in the Eighty-fifth Pennsylvania infantry, organized at Zoliarville in 1861, with William H. Horn captain. The banner was made and given to the company by women of Zoliarville. It had been in custody of the widow of Captain R. O. Phillips of Lincoln, Neb., whose husband succeeded Captain Horn in command.

Troops Will Patrol the River.

Columbus, O., May 7.—Troop B, the mounted troop of the Ohio national guard from Columbus, left on a special train over the Norfolk and Western road for Portsmouth, where they will be transferred to Ripley and will then go to the tobacco district in Brown county, where the tobacco farmers are terrorized by the night riders from Kentucky. The troop will patrol the river from Aberdeen to Higginsport.

Sophy of Kravonia.

By ANTHONY HOPE.
Author of "The Prisoner of Zenda."
Copyright, 1908, Anthony Hope Hawkins.

In spite of the fatness of the surrounding country, the appearance of Slavna is not unpicturesque. Time and the hand of man (the people are a color loving race) have given many things, soft and bright, to the roofs, gables and walls of the old quarter of the north town, once, when Suleiman's tower was with antique inaccessibility. Behind the pleasant residences, which border on the southern boulevard its handsome streets of commercial buildings and shops, these last again glowing with diversified and gaudy colors. In the center of the place, where, but for its location, we might imagine the Krath would have run, a pretty little canal has been made by abstracting water from the river and conducting it through the streets. On either side of this stream a broad road runs. Almost exactly midway through the city the roads broaden and open into the spacious square of St. Michael, containing the cathedral, the fine old city hall, several good town houses dating two or three hundred years back, barracks and the modern but not unsightly government offices. Through this square and the street leading to it from west and east there now runs an excellent service of electric cars, but at the date with which we are concerned a crazy fiasco or a crazier omnibus was the only public means of conveyance. Not a few good private equipages were, however, to be seen, for the Kravonians have been old lovers of horses. The city has a population bordering on a hundred thousand, and, besides being the principal depot and center of distribution for a rich pastoral and agricultural country, it transacts a respectable export trade in hides and skins, and is possibly for a careful man to grow rich in Slavna, even though he were not a politician nor a government official.

Two or three years earlier an enterprising Frenchman of the name of Rousseau had determined to provide Slavna with a first rate modern hotel and cafe. Nothing could have converted better with the views of King Alexis Stefanovitch, and M. Rousseau obtained on very favorable terms a large site at the southeast end of the city, just where the North and South rivers unite. Here he built his hotel and named it the Hotel de Paris. A fine terrace ran along the front of the house, abutting on the boulevard and affording a pleasant view of the town park and the palace in the distance on the opposite bank.

On this terrace, it being a fine October morning, sat Sophy, drinking a cup of chocolate. The scene before her, if not quite living up to the name of the hotel, was yet animated enough. A score of handsome carriages drove by, some containing gayly dressed ladies, some officers in smart uniforms, others in civilian dress, or walked by. Civil functionaries, journalists and a straggling line of onlookers swelled the stream which set toward the palace. Awakening from a reverie to mark the unwonted air, Sophy saw the leaders of the late procession crossing the ornamental iron bridge which spanned the Krath, a quarter of a mile from where she sat, and gave access to the king's demesne, on the left bank.

"Right bank!" she thought, "let me see if I can find a home!" she thought to herself, smiling perhaps rather bitterly. "Home!" Her home now was a single room over a goldsmith's shop, where she had removed to relieve Marie Zerkovitch from a hospital too burdensome, as Sophy feared, for her existing resources to sustain.

The reverie broke. It had been none too pleasant. In it had memories disputed place with present difficulties. Some third or so named of Lady Meg's hundred pound note. Necessity had forced the use of the money at any cost to pride. When all was gone Sophy would have to depend on what is so often a last and so often a vain refuge—the teaching of French. It was the only subject which she could claim to teach. Verily, it was a poor prospect. It was better to look at the officers and the ladies than to think of it—aye, better than to think of Cendrillon and of what lay in the past. With her strong will she strove to steel herself alike against recollection and against apprehension.

The cafe was nearly deserted. The hour was too early for the citizens, and Sophy's own chocolate had been merely an excuse to sit down. Yet presently a young officer in a hussar uniform stopped his horse opposite the door and, glancing over the railing which she attended him, dimly dismounted. Tall and fair, with a pleasant open face, he wore his hussar's dress in a dashing air and carried a delicate returned mustache as he glanced around, choosing his seat. The next moment he advanced toward Sophy. Giving her a friendly nod, he indicated a little table next to him.

"Mademoiselle permits?" he asked. "She has, I fear, forgotten, but I have the honor to be an acquaintance of hers."

He remembered her only because I saw her yesterday."

"I remember best that you said you wanted to go and help France, but your general wouldn't let you."

"Ah, I know why you remember that—you especially! Forgive me. Our friend Marie Zerkovitch told me." He turned away for a moment to give an order to the waiter.

"What's going on today?" asked Sophy. "Where's everybody going?"

"Why, you are a stranger, mademoiselle!" he laughed. "It's the king's name day, and we all go and congratulate him."

"Is that it? Are you going?"

"Certainly. In attendance on my general—General Stenovic. My lodgings are near here, his house at the other end of the boulevard, so he gave me leave to meet him here. I thought I would come early and fortify myself a little for the ordeal. To mademoiselle's good health!" He looked at her with openly admiring eyes, to which tribute Sophy accorded a lazy, unassuming smile. She leaned her chin on her hand, turning her right cheek toward him. Sophy was never discomfited, never neglected. Her pose now was good.

"What sort of a man is the king?" she asked.

"The king is most emphatically a very good sort of fellow—a very good old fellow. I only wish his son was like him! The prince is a Tartar. Has he gone by yet?"

"I don't think so. I suppose he'd have an escort, wouldn't he? I don't know him by sight yet. Does everybody call the king a good fellow?"

"Some people are so extremely righteous!" pleaded Markart ruefully. "And, anyhow, he has returned now."

"Fifty-nine. Is that so very old? No, I rather attribute it (you're discreet, I hope) to his putting my fortunes in your hands!" to Marie, la Comtesse.

"The Countess Ellenburg? Marie has told me something about her."

"Because he's old?"

"Not intimate, I think. And is the countess oppressively respectable, Captain Markart?"

"Women in her position always are," said the captain, with an affected sigh. His round, chubby face was wrinkled with merriment. "You see, a morgue-like marriage isn't such a well established institution here as in some other countries. Oh, it's legal enough, no doubt if it's agreed to on that basis, but the Stefanovitches have in the past often made nonroyal marriages—with their own subjects generally. Well, there was nobody else for them to marry! Alexis got promotion in his first marriage—an Italian baroness, which is always respectable if not very brilliant. That gave us a position, and it couldn't be thrown away. So the second marriage had to be morgue-like. Only—well, women are ambitious, and she has a young son who bears the king's name, a boy twelve years old."

He looked reflectively at his polished boots. Sophy sat in thoughtful silence. A jingle of swords and the clatter of boots roused them. A troop of soldiers rode by. Their uniforms were the same smart tunic of light blue, with black facings, as adorned Captain Markart's shapely person.

"Ah, here's the prince!" said Markart, rising briskly to his feet. Sophy followed his example, though more in curiosity than in respect.

The young man at the head of the troop returned Markart's salute, but was apparently unconscious of the individual from whom it proceeded. He rode by without turning his head or giving glance in the direction of the cafe terrace. Sophy saw a refined profile, with a straight nose, rather short, and a pale cheek. There was little trace of the Bourbon side of the pedigree.

"He's on his promotion, too," continued the loquacious and irreverent captain as he resumed his seat, "they want a big fish for him—something German, with a resounding name. Poor fellow!"

"Well, it's his duty," said Sophy. "Somebody who'll keep the countess in order, after all, smiled Markart, twining his mustache. "That's about the size of it, I expect, though naturally the general doesn't show me his hand. I only tell you common gossip."

"I think you hardly do yourself justice. You've been very interesting, Captain Markart."

"I tell you what," he said, with an engaging candor, "I believe that somehow the general makes me chatter just to the extent he wants me to and then stops me. I don't know how he does it. It's quite unconscious on my part. I seem to say just what I like."

They laughed together over this puzzle. "You mean General Stenovic?" asked Sophy.

"Yes, General Stenovic. Ah, here he is!" He sprang up again and made a low bow to Sophy. "An revoir, mademoiselle. A thousand thanks!"

He saluted her and hurried to the side of the pavement. General Stenovic rode up, with two or three behind him. Saluting again, Markart mounted his horse. The general, brought him to a stand and waited the necessary moment or two with a good humored smile. His eyes wandered from the young officer to the presumable cause of his lack of vigilance. Sophy felt the glance rest on her face. In her mind she saw a short, sturdy figure clad in a rather ugly dark green uniform, and a heavy olive tinted face adorned with a black mustache and a stubby gray beard. General Stenovic, president of the council of ministers, was not an imposing personage to the outward view. But Sophy returned the regard of his prominent pale blue eyes, which sort ofed only with the complexion of his face, with vivid attention. The general rode on, Markart following, but turning in his saddle to salute once more and to wave his hand in friendly farewell.

For the first time since her arrival in Slavna Sophy was conscious of a stir of excitement. Life had been dull and heavy. The mind had enjoyed little food save the "list of sad memories. To-day she seemed to be brought into sight of living interests again. They were far-off, but they were there. Markart's talk had made a link between them and her. She sat on for a long while, watching the junction of the streams and the broad current which flowed onward past the palace on its long journey to the sea. Then she rose with a sigh. The time drew near for a French lesson. Marie Zerkovitch had already put her two pupils.

This day Sophy began the diary. The first entry is dated that afternoon. Her presence—or preoccupation—was not at fault. From today events moved fast, and she was strangely caught up in the revolutions of the wheel.

Chapter Eleven

It was the evening of the king's name day. There was a banquet at the palace, and the lights in its windows twinkled in sympathetic response to the illuminations which blazed on the public buildings and principal residences of Slavna. Everywhere feasting and revelry filled the night. The restaurant of the Hotel de Paris was crowded, every seat on its terrace occupied. The old inn of the Golden Lion, opposite the barracks in the square of St. Michael, a favorite resort of the officers of the garrison, did a trade no less good. Humble but festive were full of private soldiers and the streets thronged with revellers, male and female, military and civil, honest and dishonest, drunk and sober. Slavna had given itself up to a frolic, for, first, a fete is a fete, no matter what its origin; second, King Alexis was the most popular man in his dominions, though he never did a decent day's work for them; last, there is often no better way to show how much you hate one man than by making a disproportionate fuss about another. It was well understood that by his honoring King Alexis, his monarch, by his vociferous and untiringly working from the longest of rains, Slavna was giving a stinging back larder to Prince Sergius, its titular prince and commandant. You would see the difference when the prince's day came round! When General Stenovic pointed to the lights gleaming across the Krath from the palace windows and congratulated the royal highness on the splendid popularity of the reigning house the prince's smile may well have been ironical.

"I shall go and see all this merriment for myself at close quarters presently, general," he said. "I think the commandant had best return to the city tonight as early as the king will allow."

"An admirable devotion to duty," answered the general gravely and without any effort to dissuade the zealous prince.

WALLACE LOST HIS OWN GAME AFTER HAVING IT WELL IN HAND.

Hurled the Sphere Away Over Cadogan's Head in Ninth, Allowing Fairmont to Tie Score.

SHAKE HUNTERS WON IN TENTH

Smashed the Ball Hard and Timely
Which in Connection With Errors by

Runs and Victory—Our Boys Could Not Bat.

Wallace, the southpaw pitcher of the Connellsville team, lost his own game yesterday in the ninth inning by a wild pitch with two men on bases. Up to the first half of the ninth inning the local aggregation had the game well in hand, the score being two to one in favor of Connellsville and two out.

Keener of Fairmont, who had been slugging the ball all during the game, led off in the ninth with a wicked drive to short that was too hot for Berghammer. Jackie's sacrifice put Keener on second. Carlisle did third to first, but Kelly rolled a slow, tantalizing grounder to first. Elam went after the ball and Wallace covered first, but the runner was safe. And right here is where Fairmont played ball. Kelly played off first, worrying Wallace, who threw repeatedly to catch him napping. The Fairmont shortstop kept baiting the southpaw until he became uneasy, and the next ball he delivered to the batter sailed away over Cadogan's head and put a big dent in the wire screen in front of the grand stand. The big elongated Keener scurried home from third, where he had landed on the hit to first. Kelly, using the score, Holmes, the next Fairmont man, was an easy out. The faithful, who were sitting out of the grounds, thinking the game was safely in the Connellsville column, halted and saw a heart rending finish. The home team could do nothing in its half, Carlisle, the opposing pitcher, striking out Elam and Berghammer and made easy work of Birmingham, who fouled out to first.

The fatal tenth opened up with Haught, who drove a liner to left, which was cleverly handled by O'Hara. Michaels, who should have been an easy out, was presented with a base on balls by Wallace. Snodgrass forced Michaels at second, but rounded up safely on first, owing to the slow play of the local infielders, who had a chance for a double play. Gates, the snappy little third sacker for Fairmont, singled to center and Kelly overran the ball. Snodgrass went to third and Gates scooted to second on the error. Then came the champion climber of the Fairmont bunch, Keener, the clean up. He smashed the ball past short on a low line and Snodgrass and Gates romped home, putting the West Virginians two runs to the good.

Connellsville made a last desperate effort to save the game but failed ignominiously. Popham, who batted for Cadogan, fouled out to first and Wallace, and Kelly knocked three home runs each in the atmosphere, and all was over.

Fairmont made the first run in the initial inning. Kelly got to second on a fluke toward short, which passed Berghammer. Holmes sacrificed him to third, where he scored on a clean single past second by Haught.

Connellsville crossed the home plate twice in the third inning, giving the lead up until the ninth inning. Wallace walked on four bad ones in succession. Kelly bunted safely, Wallace taking second. Montgomery laid down a beauty sacrifice toward third, advancing both runners. "Chap" Francis, the local boy, was the right man for the emergency. He looped a waste one to right center just out of reach of the fielders. Wallace and Kelly scampering home with the runs that put Connellsville in the lead. To rub it in Francis parried second, but was left on that base.

There was nothing doing in the run setting till after this until those awful ninth and tenth innings, which proved an incubus to the home team and the faithful rooters. The score:

Notes of the Game.
The "ump" fired the newspaper men on the players' bench. He was acting under orders of the President of the League. It is now up to that official to provide a place for representatives of the press to do their work. The grand stand is not the proper place on account of the crowd.

CHRISTY MATHEWSON.

Sensational pitcher of the New York National league baseball team.

Cadogan could have caught Kelly between second and third on Holmes' sacrifice in front of the plate in the first inning. Kelly was past short when the local catcher had the ball. It would have saved a run.

The grounds were in miserable condition, which accounted for the slowness of the game. The sun went under a cloud and the wind swept across the field, making it chilly for players and spectators.

That little man Gates at third for Fairmont is about as quick and clean cut a player there is in the league. He was also "Johnny on the spot" with a hit that aided in winning the game.

The "ump" was somewhat punk on balls and strikes, but showed no favoritism. His decisions on bases were all right.

Elam, who landed safely on first in one inning, nagged Carlisle into making a balk and sauntered down to second. That's ball playing.

Wallace did just what Kelly wanted him to do. The Snake Hunter ran all around first base drawing throws from the southpaw, which annoyed and upset him. Before steadying himself in the box he hurled the ball away up in the air and Big Keener came home with the run that tied the score.

And that man Keener lambasted the ball all over the field. He laid the local pitcher on his staff for fair. A number of the fair sex were on hand, braving the chilly blasts. The usual bunch of rooters were there, urging the locals on to victory, but the boys could not deliver the goods. Connellsville had opportunities to score in the second and fourth innings, but the required hits did not materialize.

Wallace made a spectacular stop of a line drive by Holmes. He stuck out his gloved hand and knocked down his own ball drive. The ball caromed off to Berghammer, who shot it across to Elam, retiring Holmes. It was a pretty play.

Zurdaga, the first sacker for Fairmont, clouted the ball down to deep left center and tried to stretch the drive into a three-base hit. But good work by Francis and Kelly, who relayed the ball to third, cut off Zurdaga at Birmingham's corner.

Montgomery was hit on the arm by a pitched ball and there was a wrangle. Zurdaga claimed that the ball struck the bat and kicked so long and strenuously that Empire Shoemaker sent him to the bench. He "preceded to the rear and was seated."

Reddy Mack, manager for Fairmont, also ran out in the field to protest against Montgomery taking his base. He was ejected for a time. Then the "Red One" started to play first base, but the "ump" sent him back because he was not properly uniformed, he wearing a white regatta while his team mates had on gray suits.

The good natured Hibernal after that kept up a bantering conversation from the bench. Michaels finally took the place of Zurdaga at first.

The players should get a hustle on in changing during the innings. It would quicker as well as enliven the game.

Wallace struck the first two men out in the seventh inning and then gave a base on balls to Holmes, but it had no effect on the score.

When Shoemaker called a strike on Jackie that was two feet over his head the Fairmont players on the bench knelt to the ground and raised their hands in supplication. There was room for discipline there.

Birmingham made a cutting good catch of a line drive from the bat of Gates. It was a hot one and buried itself in the third sacker's mit.

The Snake Hunters outbatted the home team. Carlisle improved as the game progressed, and in the ninth and tenth innings opened up with a burst of speed and an assortment of curves and shoots that were a complete puzzle to the locals. Wallace, while batted pretty freely, held his opponents well in check until the last two innings, when Fairmont opened up on him with a vengeance.

CHANCE TO GET A FARM

Seventeen Thousand Acres Opened by the Government on Purchase in Montana.

Special to The Courier.
HELENA, Mont., May 7.—This is the date fixed by the government for the inauguration of the irrigation project embracing the San River district in Montana, one of the largest undertakings of its kind in the country.

When the engineer turns the water into the canals today it will mean the reclamation of some 17,000 acres of land.

The land embraced in this project is subject to entry in tracts of 40 and 80 acres, the smaller parcels being near the town sites already laid out. In addition to the "farm unit," there is a grazing area back of the farm land, subject to entry under the homestead law, of which each entryman may take up a tract sufficient to bring his entire claim up to 160 acres.

The price to be paid for these lands has been fixed at $20 per acre, the cost of the construction of the works, and a charge of 50 cents per annum per acre will be charged for the water privileges and maintenance of the project. The original charge for construction is to be paid in ten annual installments of $3 per acre each.

Il Trovatore's Annual Dance.
The second annual dance of the Il Trovatore Club will be held this evening in Armory Hall. Music will be furnished by Kiforia. A large number of invitations are out.

Successful Revival.
The revival that has been going on in the Central Christian church in Uniontown had up to Monday evening added 200 to the membership of the church.

Letter to Chief Marikita.
Connellsville, Pa.
Dear Sir: There is only one thing to take least gallons to cover it job; Devoe. All the rest of the more than 200 makes of paint in the United States take more. On a 10-gallon job the next best paint takes one gallon more $5 more another "two" "10" "three" "15" "four" "20" "five" "25" "six" "30" "seven" "35" "eight" "40" "nine" "45" "ten" "50" "eleven" "55" "twelve" "60" and that is about the worst. On a 100-gallon job the extra cost of the work is about $500.

There are paints at every figure, more as the cost runs up.

There is only one paint that takes least gallons; Devoe. Yours truly, F. W. DEVOE & CO.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF AGONY.
Will You Continue to Suffer From Catarrh in the Face of This Testimony?
"I suffered for fifteen years with catarrhal troubles so bad that I had to leave the sea. I could not lie down at night to sleep, on account of the constant catarrhal dripping. I went on two different hospitals for treatment, but without any lasting benefit. I was constantly running yellow and green phlegm and the trouble was so unbearable and nauseating that I was ashamed to go out in company. I have used only two bottles of Hyonol and have been cured by the remedy. It has made a full and complete recovery." Capt. Willott.

Hyonol is a dry, healing and antiseptic air, extracted from the Eucalyptus groves of Australia. It is a pleasure to use Hyonol, because you do not take it into the stomach; you simply breathe in this germ-killing air, and relief is immediate and complete recovery comes in a few days. Hyonol outfit, including an inhaler that will last a lifetime, costs $1.00. If it does not cure your catarrh, asthma or bronchitis, coughs or colds, A. A. Clarke will give you your money back.

Red Blood, Good Health

Spring Blood is Thin and Watery Until Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills Are Used.

Red blood is the foundation of health and strength.

The same parts of the blood which give it color—the red corpuscles—also contain the elements which sustain and invigorate the body and its organs.

It is because the blood is thin, weak and watery in the spring that nearly everybody requires a blood-builder and restorative.

Now what Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills do is to increase the number of red corpuscles in the blood or in other words to make the blood redder and richer in the elements which go to build up new cells and tissues to replace those wasted by disease or in the process of living.

Radder the blood by the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and you will yourself from that low level of health which leaves you tired and languid and an easy victim of constipation or some form of wasting or nervous disease.

The portrait and signature of the famous Dr. J. C. Boettcher, author of A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills, is on every box of the genuine. Get it at all dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.
